South African National Parks Week, 22 - 28 September, is an opportunity to showcase all national parks as key local holiday destinations, and all South Africans are encouraged to take this opportunity to experience their natural heritage.

From Monday 22 to Friday 26 September, access to all the National Parks will be free, with the exception of Namaqua, West Coast and Tankwa Karoo.

The objective of the South African National Parks Week is to cultivate a culture of national pride in South Africa's natural, cultural and historical heritage, under the theme "Know Your National Parks". South Africans carrying an official Identity Document and School Children in uniform will be allowed free entry.
